

Mega Fortris Americas operating status amid COVID-19

The safety of our staff and their families is of the utmost importance to us. Mega Fortris is classified as an essential business and we are following all COVID-19 guidelines to prevent spread of the virus while still meeting our commitments to our customers.

Our security seals and monitoring devices are securing the global supply chain of essential businesses in the food industry, healthcare, transportation, chemical, oil and gas, utilities, and other critical infrastructure companies – and we are taking all measures from our home offices to continue uninterrupted supplies while only essential employees associated with production and shipping are attending work at our facilities. Our company owned factories and diverse suppliers have proven to be robust and flexible even in these disruptive circumstances and our local facilities are well stocked and uniquely experienced to assist securing your company in these troubled times and beyond.
